Have you participated in Kraken Post (previously called Sea Monkey Mail) ON BOAT before? *

This question relates ONLY to the ON BOAT gift exchange, not the snail mail Festivus/Kraken Post gift exchanges that were done in 2020/2021.

- Yes
- No

Due to no internet on the boat, communicating with others can prove challenging. Are you likely to use Twit-arr while on the boat? (Twit-arr is like Twitter but local to Boat and on the wifi LAN so you don't have to buy international data or talk packages to communicate across the ship) *

- Yes
- No
- Maybe

If you answered Yes above, would you please provide your planned Twit-arr handle if known.

Your answer

We usually try to schedule a meetup for everyone sometime on the cruise.

Assuming no scheduling conflicts, how likely are you to attend? *

(No judgements here, meetups aren't everyone's thing and that is OK, however, having an approx idea on attendance helps me with planning and when requesting space in the schedule from TH0.)

- Yes
- No
- Maybe
- Other:

Feedback we have received each year indicates that many participants would like to meet their team mates, which isn't always easy to do at the Meetup. To help minimise this we would like to share your email address with your team mates when teams get allocated. Do you consent to your email address being shared with your team mates in case they need/want to contact you? *

Please Note: Participant email addresses will NOT be shared on a publicly viewable spreadsheet of team info, this is only to help co-ordinate team meetups/build community for those that are interested in doing so and who may want an easy way to reach their team mates prior to boat. This may also enable you to easily advise your team mates of your cabin number (when they get assigned) and/or any last minute changes eg. cabin change etc.

Your answer

A team consists of up to 8 people (ie you should give 7 gifts and receive 7 gifts).

How many Kraken Post teams you would you like to be in? *

Currently there is no maximum cap enforced for number of teams you can be in, however I personally recommend no more than 10 teams - remember you should be getting back the same number of gifts that you give out however what you get back may be more than you can fit in your luggage.

Are you happy to be in a team with some under 16s?

(Please note: I try to group all the under 16s in teams together, in similar age bands where possible, but sometimes I need to fill out teams with other participants. Over 16s are unlikely to be included in multiple under 16 teams unless specifically requested. Also the more teams you sign up for the more likelihood you may be included in at least one under 16 team if numbers require it.)
