THE WHETHER REPORT

"Whether you visit Nassau or stay aboard the ship, you're going to have a swell time."

PORT OF CALL: NASSAU

Welcome to Nassau, the capital city of the Bahamas and the ~~honorary~~ ACTUAL first port of call of JoCo Cruise 2022! [Editor's Note: It's the actual first port of call. Reporter's response: Can't it be BOTH honorary and actual? Editor's Counter-response: That will just confuse people.]

Founded in 1670 as Charles Town, the city was renamed in honor of the House of Nassau following the "Glorious" Revolution in 1688, for reasons that made perfect sense in the fraught political circumstances of the mid-1690s.

At one point in the early eighteenth century, Nassau was the pirate capital of the Caribbean, but we are reliably informed by JoCo Cruise Intelligence Services that buccaneering is no longer part of the local economy, so play nice! Today, it's a city of over 200,000 people and the capital of the beautiful Bahamas, featuring historic architecture, markets, and sandy beaches.

Note: We can neither confirm nor deny the presence or absence of buried pirate treasure in and around Nassau beaches, but please remember that any doubloons, ducats, or pieces of eight you find will have to be declared to US Customs, will be subject to the JOCO Cruise tithe, and/or may be cursed.

So, whether you're taking advantage of one of HAL's shore excursions, or setting off on your own to shop, eat, or wander around aimlessly, remember to make it back to the ship before 2:30pm. That's when we sail away, and we would really love for you to be there when that happens.

RECIPE: CUSTOM SALAD A LA NIEUW AMSTERDAM

INGREDIENTS

- Whatever is available at the salad station at Lido Marketplace
- A healthy appetite
- Pepper to taste (optional)

PROCEDURE

1. Approach the salad station. If there are others already pursuing this recipe, wait your turn. Because though you may be hungry, you are not a barbarian.
2. Examine the array of potential salad ingredients, or the list of pre-composed combinations. Mull it over, but not for too long if it is your turn to be served.
3. When the server asks "How can I help you?", "Would you like a salad?", "Salad is LIFE-what is your pleasure?", or anything similar, greet them pleasantly but briefly, and make your request.
4. Important: DO NOT ATTEMPT TO TOUCH THE SALAD INGREDIENTS BEFORE THEY HAVE BEEN ASSEMBLED FOR YOU. You are on vacation, and deserve to have this handled by a professional.
5. If your server asks any questions vis-à-vis your salad preferences, answer promptly and honestly. There are no wrong answers at the salad station. Only ingredients that may not be available, or requests that might perhaps be a bit outlandish. But go ahead and ask for additional ranch dressing, if that is your desire. There is no need to suffer with a salad that does not reflect your true wishes.
6. Once your salad has been completed and presented to you, verify that it is in fact your salad. There is no need to suffer with a salad that belongs to someone else. If it proves to be the wrong salad, or otherwise does not meet your expectations, politely ask for it to be amended.
7. Accept the salad from your server, and offer them a brief, kind word or two. "Thank you" is always appreciated, but feel free to improvise.
8. Find a place to eat your salad, ideally at a table where fresh utensils are available.
9. Enjoy your salad, you marvelous you.
10. Almost forgot: add pepper, to taste.
