HALF MOON CAY!

Welcome to Half Moon Cay, Holland America's very own island in the Bahamas.

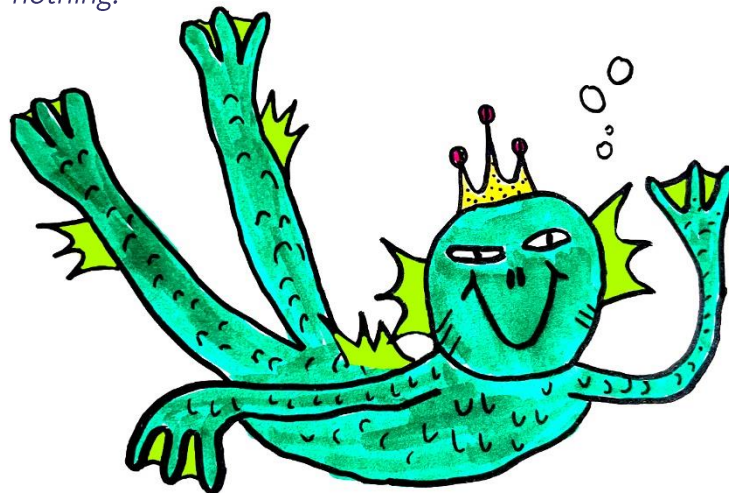

Once known as Little San Salvador Island, this 2,400-acre island is now a private retreat for passengers on Holland America and Carnival cruises.

Named "Half Moon Cay" in honor of the ill-fated 1608 expedition by Henry Hudson in search of the Northwest Passage*, Half Moon Cay is a haven both for cruise passengers and for migratory birds; however, since few of the latter are known to read this newsletter, we have confined our analysis to those traits known to appeal to the former.

Less than 2% of the island is developed, but amenities include beaches, cabanas, restaurants, and gift shops. Popular water activities include kayaking, snorkeling, a free Aqua Park for kids, and the opportunity to meet Stingrays at the aptly named "Stingray Cove."

Finally, previous JoCo Cruises are rumored to have left secret puzzles and buried treasure on shore. For our more enterprising guests, we take this opportunity to remind you of JoCo Cruise's 10% Finder's Fee for any Buried Treasure.

Editor's Note: Is this true? We need to check. Reporter's Response: Well, maybe this is what happens when you fire the Ship's Historian and Mathematician. Editor's Counter-Response: They were holding us back. I regret nothing.*

In honor of our arrival at Half Moon Cay, we finally managed to track down the Ship's Poet Laureate, who has apparently been in "retreat" at the Sea View Bar this whole time. After some gentle prodding, they contributed this modest tribute to our next destination:

On the Last Landfall of JoCo 2022

O Half Moon Cay, you charming little isle,
Upon your shores we may repose in style,

Your sandy beaches beckon us ashore,
Your sultry waters leave us wanting more.

I've heard the Stingray Thing is kind of cool,
Though I prefer to lounge around the pool.

Alright that poem's long enough, I think.
This writer's off to have another drink.

STORMOSCOPES, VOL. 2

AQUARIUS - This is it: your Moment. You know what to do.

MOOSE BINDERS - When a moose gets loose, you will know what to do.

LEO - You are approaching an important sartorial decision.

CHIPOTLES - You will say "pinto beans," but will have meant to say "black beans." You will find the outcome to be perfectly fine.

CAPRICORN - You will face and defeat an ancient evil, but the timing might not be convenient, you know?

WIDDLE BUNNY WABBITS - Ohhh you're so cuuute! Look at you! Snuffling around like that with your little hop-hops and it's ADORBS OVERLOAD.

FINDERS - Keepers.

KEEPERS - Finders are overrated.
